CROSBY S. NOYES Editor. The Evening Star has a regular, perm nent, bens fide daily circulation more than double that of any other daily paper published in Washington, and equal to tha of all the other daily papers here added to-

THE STAR is connected with the wires of the Na-Monal Telephone Exchange and with the Western Union Telephone Exchange. Both these agencies can therefore be availed of in sending to THE STAR advertisements, orders for the paper to be served, news, or any information, at any hour of the day free of charge. These facilities are a great convenience, and will be appreciated by the customers of Persons leaving town for the season, and Summer travelers, can have THE STAR mailed to them. postpaid, for fifty cents per month, the address being changed as often as desired. The money must accompany the order in all cases.

Never, we believe, has a 4th of July in Washington been marked by more shooting of pistols. fire-crackers, etc., than was yesterday. Happily the casualties therefrom were fewer and less disastrous than might have been expected. Six fires, all rather slight in character, and sixteen injuries to person, more or less severe, but fortunately not very serious in any case, is the sum total of calamities so far reported from the use of powder in its various forms. This is better than might have been expected. Considering the slight damage to life and property when compared with the quantity of powder consumed, the authorities will probably feel justified in encouraging the boys to go a little farther and celebrate the day even more generally and noisily next year. We beg to suggest to them that they can facilitate things a good deal in this direction by sending the police and fire department to the country on a pic-nic, and making public proclamation to Young America to do as it pleases in future. This would make it pleasant all around.

The company owning the steamers Narragansett and New York, which lately came into collision with such fatal results in Long Island Sound, has withdrawn its advertisements from one of the New York papers which commented pretty freely on the circumstances attending that disaster. Next to officially and publicly sanctioning carelessness in the equipment and running of its vessels, this is just about the worst blunder that corporation could make. It at once damages its own business by advertising the fact that its management will not stand the test of criticism, and puts the paper in question prominently before the public as a corrector of abuses, which is sure to bring it patronage worth ten times or a hundred times as much as that so foolishly withdrawn. No newspaper that pretends to be a newspaper can afford, even if it should desire, not to publish the facts connected with such events, nor to comment upon them as the public welfare may seem to demand, and the sooner the vast corporations having to do with human life and comfort understand that their short-comings as well as their successes are proper subjects for newspaper comment, the better it will be for all concerned.

So much interest and sympathy have been elicited in Philadelphia by the hardships of the shop girls who are not allowed to sit down during business hours that one of the leading dry goods houses of that city is out in a card saying: "The large number of salesladies in our employ are allowed to be seated at all times when not actually engaged so as to render it impossible. To compel saleswomen and girls to remain standing from morning until nightas has been repeatedly charged-would be sheer inhemanity, which, speaking for ourselves, we have never even entertained." Public sentiment, it is thought, will soon lead other establishments less considerate than this to adopt

The 4th of July takes on new terrors for steady-going old-fashioned people when the immortal declaration of independence is reduced to jingling verse and intoned or chanted by an actress as a part of the day's proceedings. This is what befel that time honored document in hiladelphia,-of all places !-yesterday. Who furnished the metrical mutilation we do not know, but Miss Lilian Glover did the intoning.

The highest authorities say there is nothing so good for grass and shrubbery in back yards as the blood of slaughtered dogs and cats. That of the noisy kinds has peculiarly valuable prop-
